The tract contains about thirty acres and Hes between two other stretches, for the advantageous and satisfactory for the Uniuse of which the officials have already made arrangements. The officials offered to pay a rental of $3,500 per year for the land, basing this rental upon an estimated value of about $350,000.

The owners, Mrs. Laura Tesson and her sons, say this estimate is far too low, and place the figures at $1,000,000, and presumably want four times as much rent.

This was brought out in the arguments before Judge Sanborn this morning, the plaintiffs being represented by G. A. Finkelnburg and James P. Dawson and the Exposition officials by F. W. Lehmann, special counsel of the Exposition. No testimony was taken in the case, all the facts except as to the value of the property being admitted. Almost the entire day was taken up with the arguments.

The basis of the complaint's contention is the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, to the effect that it is the inalienable right of every citizen of this country to dispose of his own property. The Exposition Company made precisely
